

The Document Centre joins the IMF Depository Library Program (11/01/2006)

Dear All,

We are pleased to announce that the Library's Document Centre (DC) is now successful in joining the Depository Library Program with the International Monetary Fund (IMF) after a long period of negotiation. As a result, the IMF provides the valuable publications free of charge to the DC to support teaching, learning and research needs by members of the University. The first package of more than 100 publications has been delivered to us and they are being processed. Publications cover the subjects of: global monetary cooperation, financial stability, international trade, employment, sustainable economic growth, and poverty reduction, etc. We are sure that they will be of value to you as some readers have been looking for the IMF publications in the past.

Kindly also note that up to now we have established Depository Library Program with the following International Organizations:

International Organizations 國際組織
United Nations (UN) 聯合國
